BOOK SYNOPSIS

Frankfurt/M., Berlin, Bern, Bruxelles, New York, Oxford, Wien. In the European Union, unemployment rates differ markedly across regions, both within and across nations. This study presents a coherent theoretical approach to explain the emergence and persistence of such regional unemployment disparities. The analysis builds on the wage curve literature, and on regional agglomeration theories like the new economic geography. These theoretical strings are combined and extended, in order to provide a unified framework. Contents: Regional disparities in the EU - The « European Labour Market Model - The wage curve - New economic geography - Regional agglomeration and regional unemployment - Internal migration and regional disparities.
